Trivia: When Glenn Morris was distinguishing himself as one of the area's best athletes in both football and track at Colorado State College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts in 1935, winning an Olympic gold medal was just a glimmer of a dream. Morris became intrigued with the decathlon during the 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles and went on to compete in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, where he was determined to win the gold medal and break his world record. He did both, closing with a stirring personal-best time in the 1500 meters and leading an American sweep of the medals. When the team returned from the Games, Morris received the prestigious Sullivan Award, given annually to the nation's top amateur athlete
